

NZHTA Week 2 Term 4 2024

Kia ora koutou,

In this pānui:

- Key points about the 1.3 Stimulus Material
- NZHTA Reflection and Planning Workshops for November
- RAMP Webinars next week (changes to standards)
- NZHTA Survey (please complete!)
- New primary sources available from Army Museum
- Last minute tips for Essay Writing

1.3 Stimulus Material - points to note

The Stimulus material for the 1.3 exam should be available to you through your PN. Some things to note:

- The purpose of providing the sources ahead of time is to overcome literacy obstacles. You can't teach to the topic of the booklet.
- How much time ākonga get with the sources will depend on their literacy needs. For most (but not all) ākonga this might be one or two periods. You will best know the needs of your ākonga.
- As tempting as it is (so tempting!) we shouldn't be dropping hints as to what we think the likely concepts will be.
- Even though the stimulus front cover says "You may keep this booklet" the sources should stay in class. Exceptions to this general rule might occur if ākonga are away sick. The front cover printing seems to be a template. They can keep the booklet from the real exam.

- The video source will have a series of screenshots and some transcription in the sources they get for the exam. There is no expectation or ability to show the video during the exam.

There will be no cost for these workshops. Morning tea and lunch will be provided!

Standards Review and Maintenance Programme (RAMP) Webinars

There have been some minor changes to History Standards at L1, 2 and 3. You can find out more about these changes by reading here, and there will be webinars run next week. The webinars will be presented by Graeme Ball (MoE NCEA Implementation Facilitator), Christina Nicolaas (NZQA National Assessment Advisor) and Craig Thornhill (NZHTA Kaiārahi)

Webinar Tuesday 29th, 3.40-4.30pm (register here)

This session will begin with a presentation (20-30mins) on the changes across Levels 1-3 that will take effect in 2025. It will be recorded. Questions may be placed in the chat and will be addressed at the conclusion of the presentation, during the Q+A part.

Q and A Thursday 31st, 3.40-4.30pm (register here)

This Q+A only session (not recorded) is a follow-up to the session held on Tuesday. It is expected that you will have attended or watched the recording of Tuesday's session. Only those who register for one or both sessions will receive the link to the recording.

NZHTA Survey

A reminder of NZHTA's end-of-year survey. Please complete this as it gives us valuable information about what history teachers are doing around Aotearoa, and what we can do to support you next year. Also - you could win a book by completing the survey.

Winners so far of a copy of Michael Belgrave's new book Becoming Aotearoa are Mercury Bay Area School, Papanui High School and Catlins Area School. There are still four more books to be won, so please complete the survey!

He Mata Toa - Army Museum Primary Sources

The Army Museum has recently digitised a range of their material and made it available on their website. This is a great collection of interviews from both World Wars and the Vietnam War. There is a large collection focused on 28 Māori Bn too. These are obviously useful for senior history kaiako and ākonga, but should also be relevant for ANZH.
